THIS WEEK'S CONTEST

Week 1052: Clue us in

Exactly 100 years ago Saturday, the New York World published a diamond-shaped "word-cross" puzzle containing such clues as "a talon" and "the fibre of the gomuti palm," and untold millions of enthusiasts have been filling in little squares with the word for the fibre of the gomuti palm ("doh") ever since.

And exactly six years ago (well, six years ago this month) The Style Invitational published its first Clue Us In puzzle, and untold dozens of enthusiasts have sent us a list of clues for the words in an already filled-in grid.

But we still haven't used "doh." Maybe next time.

Above is the solution to a crossword by Bob Klahn that ran in The Post on Dec. 2. This week: Come up with up to 25 creative, funny clues for the words and multi-word terms that appear in the grid. (You can see Bob's actual creative clues at bit.ly/grid1052, along with a printable grid.) The clues should be very brief but don't have to be quite as short as required for a real crossword. You can see the results of our last backward crossword — winning entry: "RAH: The Egyptian god who demanded sacrifices of human pyramids," by Barbara Turner — at bit.ly/invite1010.

Winner gets the Inkin' Memorial, the Lincoln statue bobblehead that is the official Style Invitational trophy. Second place receives yet another of our prize bottles of Critter-Infused Elixir From the East: This one, brought to us directly from Vietnam by Hall of Fame Loser Stephen Dudzik, contains both a scorpion and a snake! (This photo is from Wikipedia, but it looks much like it.) Stephen is once again playing host to the Losers' Post-Holiday Party next month, so maybe it's a good thing we took this baby off his hands. (If you win and are not of drinking age, or if you live too far for us to ship it to you safely, or if you just don't want it, we'll substitute another prize.)

Other runners-up win their choice of a yearned-for Loser Mug or the ardently desired "Whole Fools" Grossery Bag. Honorable mentions get a lusted-after Loser magnet, either the Po' Wit Laureate or Puns of Steel. First Offenders receive a smelly tree-shaped air "freshener" (FirStink for their first ink). E-mail entries to losers@washpost.com or fax to 202-334-4312. Deadline is Monday, Dec. 30; results published Jan. 19 (online Jan. 16). No more than 25 entries per entrant per week. Include "Week 1052" in your e-mail subject line or it might be ignored as spam. Include your real name, postal address and phone number with your entry. See contest rules and guidelines at wapo.st/InvRules. The subhead for this week's honorable mentions is by Tom Witte.
