

Style Invitational

BY PAT MYERS

Report from Week 1062

in which we asked for rhyming poems based on current events. The deadline for submissions was March 10, and although there was still a lot of confusion about what was going on in Ukraine, a slew of entrants wrote a verse or title including "Crimea River."

Administration tries to get young adults to sign up for Obamacare

"Hey, horse, here's some water!" You can't make him drink.
"Hey, people, here's science!" You can't make them think.
"Hey, boyfriend! I'm perfect!" You can't force his love.
"Hey, young people, heard about Healthcare.gov?"
(Danielle Nowlin, Woodbridge)

OF THE INKIN'
MEMORIAL

BOB STAAKE FOR THE WASHINGTON POST

2 Winner of the necktie covered with little pictures of Viagra:

Mass. court rules upskirt photos are legal

In Boston a hotshot's been getting his jollies
By upskirting crotch shots of women on trolleys.
He's guilty as sin, and so people will scoff
If the verdict comes in and again he gets off. (Chris Doyle, The Villages, Fla.) (The state enacted a law the very next day to make this a crime.)

3 Ariz. Gov. Brewer vetoes bill that would allow discrimination against gays (A double dactyl)

Warily, verily,
Brewer the Governor
Vetoed the anti-gay
Bill in her state.

Threats from the Super Bowl
Showed Arizonans that
Buy-sexuality's
Stronger than hate. (Gary Crockett, Chevy Chase)

4 Fox News doesn't like the president!

A reckless, mad Caesar or feckless appeaser?
Dictatorial, scheming or meek?
You must tune in Fox News to see how it skews,
Which Obama they'll feature this week. (Frank Osen, Pasadena, Calif.)

(We) give us a (spring) break

Four weeks from now, the Empress will be on assignment overseas — okay, she assigned herself a week or so of leisure time — so there's no new contest this week. But in four weeks, we'll publish some more of the honorable mentions from Week 1062: current-events poems that shouldn't be outdated a month from now.

Meanwhile, next week you'll find The Style Invitational in a new location in the Sunday Post: The Arts and Sunday Style sections have decided to move in together — move back in together, really — into a single broadsheet (full-size) section called Arts & Style: Just as in the weekday paper, classical arts, popular arts and various featurey columns will once again be in one trip-to-the-bathroom-friendly section — call it same-section marriage. And the Invite will be inside the section, at the top of the page right next to the crossword.

Be sure to track us down, because we'll be celebrating our new digs with the contest everyone loves to enter: our 20th annual challenge to "breed" two horses in a list of some of this year's Triple Crown-nominated racehorses, and name their "foal." The new contest and list of horses will appear online Thursday, April 3, and in the April 6 Arts & Style.

Meanwhile, still running — deadline Monday night: our contest to slightly alter an "A-and-B" phrase ("aid and abet," "peace and quiet," etc.) and define the result. See bit.ly/invite1065.

(Today's honorable-mentions subhead is by Tom Witte.)

Taxing poetic: honorable mentions

The Crimea takeover

The world's big leaders babble
While Putin quells the rabble,
He lets Obama dabble
In his feckless, toothless threats.
He's heedless to the prattle
For Russia means to battle —
Not just saber-rattle,
As more ruthless Putin gets. (Ray Gallucci, Frederick)

Region's traffic jams eased slightly

Our time stuck in traffic decreased this past year!
For what should we give a collective big cheer?
For smart growth and transit and doing things right?
For pooling our cars and our efforts?
Not quite.

The shutdown kept bureaucrats
home by the mobs,
And cash sequestration cost
thousands of jobs.
(Nan Reiner, Alexandria)

Md. health care signup is a disaster

(With apologies to Coleridge)
In Maryland did Kubla Khan
A statewide Health Exchange decree.
Where Crash, the half-baked Web site, ran
With bug counts measureless to man
Down too, too frequently.
(Gary Crockett)

French scientist revives ancient virus

Forget about the pyramids and scrolls made of papyrus;
I'll tell you what is old: a 30,000-year-old virus.
They've thawed and resurrected one
— an awful lot of drama there!
But since it's "preexisting," is it covered by Obamacare? (Beverly Sharp, Montgomery, Ala.)

Kim Kardashian, Kanye West announce engagement

Kimye set a wedding date
And many will attend it,
The sooner they get started, well,
The sooner they can end it. (Danielle Nowlin)

Gestapolemic?

Quoth Hillary: "Putin's like Hitler,"
Which caused lots of folks to belittle
her. (Frank Osen)

John Travolta introduces Idina Menzel as 'Adele Dazeem'

If I were Idina Menzel,
And on Oscar night, sounded like hell,
Then it might be my dream
To be dubbed "Ms. Dazeem"
Or otherwise known as "Adele."
(Mark Raffman, Reston)

Canada demands that porn channels use more local talent

The Canadian broadcast commission
Wants adult TV channels to play Home-grown porn, 'cause its members are wishin'

For gals who cry, "Oh! Oh! Oh! Eh!"
(Chris Doyle)

Tribute to Gov. Christie

There's no traffic like slow traffic
There's no traffic I know!
People say that I am all too willing
To retaliate against my foes.
But I find the power so fulfilling —
It's really thrilling when traffic slows!

There's no traffic like slow traffic
I love watching lines grow!
Though I made the New York Port Authority
Screw up commuters all through Fort
Lee,
I will be the presidential nominee!
Let's go on with the show!
(Barbara Sarshik, McLean)

To the tune of "America the Beautiful"

"America the Beautiful":
When we hear that song sung
By anyone who's dark or gay,
or speaks a foreign tongue,
Our patriotic hearts are filled with somber waves of hate,
For xenophobic loathing is what makes our country great.

We love to watch the Super Bowl,
and we love every ad.
But this year there was one for Coke
that made us super mad.
America, America!
Fox shed its rage on thee.
Fill spacious skies with angry cries against diversity.
(Chris O'Carroll, Emporia, Kan.)

And Last:

A famous daily paper has its fun with male distress
And offers as a trophy, lacking
conscience or redress,
A tie festooned with potent pills from mega-pharma joints —
And if you still don't get it, take a look at where it points. (Elden Camahan, Laurel)

This week's second-place
winner,
1,500-time
Loser Chris
Doyle, scores
... this tie.
(See the ode to it at right.)
