Pope Loses Appetite at February NRARS Feast

Pontiff appalled by lack of civility, excommunicates Depravda editor. Use of incendiary devices narrowly avoided!

Washington DC. - The NRARS community was stunned and leading scientists were baffled when Monica Lewinsky arrived at the society's February brunch along with her unexpected companion - Pope John Paul II. This was the first official NRARS function His Holiness has ever attended even though he has never really been invited. "Wow!" said Jonathan Paul, "This is even bigger than having the governor of West Virginia show up at Loserpalooza!"

Technically speaking the governor of West Virginia has been invited to Loserpalooza, but he's always snubbed us claiming to have a "busy" schedule. Well I don't see why if his schedule is busy he can't just leave it behind. When my schedule is busy I let it go do whatever it needs and I find other ways to amuse myself. You'd think being a governor and all that he'd have learned that trick himself. Unless of course it was a shallow attempt to snub the lot of us.

But then none of that really has anything to do with this story. I should move on...

Anyway, the pontiff opened up the brunch with a truly inspiring speech which was unfortunately in Latin, which none of us really understood very well. So to call the speech inspiring is really kind of a wild guess. For all we know he could have been insulting our mothers and questioning our lineage, actions that would have actually been quite appropriate for an NRARS function even if unexpected from the leader of the Roman Catholic church. At least he was getting into the spirit. Once again, as far as we could tell.

Dave Zarrow, determined to show off his multi-lingual capabilities addressed the Pope with these kind words: "Elcomeway Ontiffpay. hetay eoplepay foxay RARSNay reetgay ouyay ithway penoxay rmsaxay!" To which John Paul responded "Quid doofus." The meaning of all this was also lost on us.

Joe Romm on the other hand challenged the pope with the age old question: "If God is all powerful then could he make a stone so large that even He couldn't move it?" In response the pontiff swung his staff down cracking it across Joe's head and said simply "Yes."

At the invitation of Dave Zarrow, Monica Lewinsky joins the NRARS for their February brunch. Surprise guest Pope John Paul II stops by to inquire whether anyone knows where a woods might be.

Well shortly after the reporters from the major news outlets arrived and the pope was jostled around as the microphones came out, the cameras came up, and everyone pushed him out of the way in order to get a word in with Monica. Clearly frustrated by this treatment the pope gave up and got in the buffet line to round up some grub.

Contrary to common perception Monica was not at all adverse to talking with the media although she did draw the line at Depravda. Nevertheless we did overhear her sheepishly explained how the whole thing with the president had been a misunderstanding. Turns out it wasn't the president at all, but rather some shady office supply dealer claiming to be the president that had lured her in. She started figuring it all out when this false president kept complaining about getting no ink even though the real president was all over the front page.

EARS - The EAR-LY YEARS

Special to Depravda by Staff Photographer Stephen Dudzik

Steve "ear-boy" Dudzik

"The seriously under-appreciated Faerie of the Ear No One Reads wishes to inquire as to whether anyone has noticed the Faerie's handiwork, and to solicit ideas for future weeks."

With these hallowed words the Czar, in his Faerie guise, invited Losers to submit their earwax, ..er, suggestions, for consideration and publishing. Loser neophytes should know some of the Ear's early history if they are to understand the Ear phenomenon. In the beginning, the Czar created all the Ears; as best we can tell from earthropological digging using carbide tipped Q-Tips. The VERY FIRST Ear hatched from the primordial ooze was printed Sunday, December 19, 1993 (week 42) -- "Mysteries of Life Unraveled". This beauty was followed in succession by: Walking on Eggshells with Hob-nailed Boots (12/26/93)

Raising Humor to New Depths (1/2/94) Twenty-five Years of Error-free Journalism (1/9/94) Fearlessly Publishing Words Such as [EXPLETIVE] (1/16/94) (Note: week 46 (1/16/94) was the first solicitation for Ears) So Hip We Need a Thigh Master (1/23/94) What Are You Looking Up Here For? (2/6/94)

Strangely, unfathomably, inexplicably, it wasn't until Sunday, 21 May 1995 (week 114) that the first non-Czar, Loser Ear appeared. Jacob Weinstein of McLean VA claimed the honors with "Fashion, Leisure and the Occasional Grisly Murder". The Czar noted in his fine print that "winning entries receive their choice of 1) official mention in this column or 2) dysentery". Mr. Weinstein apparently chose the former.

Stephen Dudzik/Silver Spring made his debut in week 116 with "FEATURING SEQUENTIALLY NUMBERED PAGES" while the Czar claimed week 117 as his own. Other debuts will follow after these interesting Style Invitational tidbits gleaned from The Carnahan Archives. Tidbit 1. The Style Invitational contest once appeared on page F4 on 11/21/93. Tidbit 2. Internet access to the contest started on Sunday, 13 March 1994.

This unfortunately opened the contest to those darn foreigners from the Left Coast and other non-Herndon locales. On the plus side, it allowed us procrastinators to wait until Monday to submit entries. ---Back to debuts:

week 118, 6/18/95, Sarah Worcester -- LIFT HERE TO OPEN week 120, 7/2/95, Russell Beland -- THIRD RUNNER-UP, EDWARD R. MORROW GREAT JOURNALISM AWARD week 121, 7/9/95, John Kammer -- FEATURING MANY FINE PHOTOS YOU CAN COLOR YOURSELF week 123, 7/23/95, Stephen Dudzik (2nd Ear) -- PERFECT FOR MAKING HUGE ORIGAMI CRANES

The Czar noted in week 123: The Faerie of the Fine Print and the Ear No One Reads would like to observe that we have begun getting tormented letters from people who don't know what the Ear No One Reads is and want to find out. We feel their pain.

week 125, 8/6/95, Ken Krattenmaker -- YOU THINK THAT SERRATED EDGE UP THERE WAS EASY?

week 126, 8/13/95, Joe Romm -- SOME EDITIONS PRINTED WITH INCOMPLETE

week 132, 9/24/95, Elden Carnahan -- WET THUMB BEFORE ATTEMPTING TO SMUDGE week 133, 10/1/95, Tom Witte -- HUMOR/FASHION/THE OCCASIONAL TERRORIST MANIFESTO week 136, 10/22/95, Kitty Thuermer -- THE NEW YORK TIMES WOULD NEVER DO THIS week 137, 10/29/95, Jean Sorensen -- WE OPALOGIZE FOR THE INCONVENIENTS.THERE IS A BUG IN ARE SPELCHECK week 149, 1/21/96, Jonathan Paul -- IF SWALLOWED, INDUCE VOMITING week 152, 2/11/96, Jennifer Hart -- DID YOU KNOW THAT THE WORD "GULLIBLE" ISN'T IN ANY DICTIONARY?

That concludes the debut section of this article.

Stephen Dudzik was the early Ear leader and earned the moniker "Ear Boy" as a result. Russ Beland became a contender as Steve's idea pool dried up. Soon David Genser and Jonathan Paul joined the fray and Ear writing would never be the same.

This reporter's greatest Ear joy occurred when an alert reader, possibly Jonathan Paul, informed the Loser-e-mail world that my Ears appeared in small blurbs in both Time magazine and NY Magazine. At last, vindication by the major media of a new and truly American art form! Further articles will explore the philosophy of the Ear and the thrill of the hunt for ink. Remember, Ear today, gone tomorrow.

THE MARCH OF SOPHISTRY

by Elden Carnahan

WEEK 247: BLACK AND WHITE AND WED ALL OVER

"Kind of Hush" First Runner-up Cheryl Kagan, Rockville, joins Marty Madden (we think: maybe there's two of him) in being state legislator unafraid to be labeled a Loser, according to alert reader Jonathan Paul.

WEEK 251: QUOTH THE MAVEN

Jennifer Hart not seemingly destined to repeat as Loser of the Year, but is first in Year 5 to collect credits for a Win, an Idea, an Honorable Mention, and each Runner-Up.

WEEK 252: MAKE YOUR MOVIE

Mary Lee Fox Roe apparently likes big contests, with 4 hits out of 30,000 contestant offerings; she had 5 out of 15,000 in last What Kind of Foal, Week 216.

First appearance of Meg Sullivan this Year, once highest-rated female contestant.

Mikko Aurela is back for first time since debut in Week 109, Send Us Your Mail Parts.

Charlie Steinhice, with Smith, Hart, and Blyveis, becomes Year's 5 fourth 3-time Winner.

Joyce Rains in for only the fourth time in career, but one of those times was the correct guess as to what happened to Week 64: "It was disowned from the Week 60 Family because it married Week 8, its 'common denominator.'"

After three-year chase, Tom Witte accedes to #2 life-time, despite having ripped off one of Dave Zarrow's plagiarisms from Week 136, New End in Sight, to do it. Uneasy lies the head, Tom.

WEEK 253

With 79 hits for Year 5, David Genser is 10 away from setting a record for one Year's output.

What delicious irony: for making us all work on bad puns, Czarevich is Loser #1917.

Jonathan Paul takes lead for First Runner-Ups in Year 5, with 4.

Attack of the lemmings: Jose Cortina, Chuck Smith, and Jonathan Paul are identified as latest Washington residents, although they will have to work hard to overtake Robin Grove, now living in at least his fourth jurisdiction since debuting in Week 6.

PAUL KONDIS PRESENTS...

Rotisserie League '97,

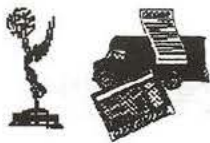

Good God, Y'all, What is it GOOD FOR??? --

The universe will continue expanding outward forever, particularly if it keeps eating like it has been, according to strong new evidence unveiled yesterday by five teams of astronomers. Experts said the findings, which contradict leading theory and call leading theory "unfit for leadership" in what has turned into verbal mudslinging, could solve some scientific puzzles - including a simmering debate about the age of the universe which persistently insists that it is 39 - but is still not adept at spatial problems such as Rubik's cube. This could ripple through studies of nature's smallest particles, its large-scale cosmic structure, and the ongoing quest for a "theory of everything" that would unify those fields, the leading candidate currently being "the large-scale cosmic structure is made up of lots of nature's smallest particles. Lots and lots." These researchers said that their evidence had been gathered separately using three different methods, and the data had "not been made up. Not at all. We wouldn't do that just because you wouldn't know the difference."

Most astronomers agree that the universe began in a "big bang" sometime before the stock market crash of 1929, when all of time and space were contained in a single dense point, ruling out the possibility of any intelligent life in the universe. This point suddenly blossomed outward in an expanding fireball of particles, causing its insurance premiums to rise dramatically. One of the abiding questions has been how much matter the resulting universe contains and what will be its ultimate fate, but we don't think we will abide this question any more. Hatemail to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I am appalled. In January's Hatemail to the Editor column there appeared a photo captioned 'Depravda editor pictured with fringe benefits' which had clearly been doctored. Do you not check your sources or are you purposefully altering photos to fit with your stories? I have found a copy of the original un-altered picture and have included it for your retraction.

Sincerely, Peyton Coyner - Afton, Va.

Dear Editor-4-Life,

I have heard rumors that Jennifer Hart has been spotted carrying some kind of alien fetus. My sources insist that they've even seen actual photographs (yes, incontrovertible evidence!) that show Mz. Hart flaunting her non-human spawn. Is this true? What are the implications? Can she be drummed out of N.R.A.R.S. and her Loser points flushed from the system if she harbors such life-forms?

Yours in the truth, - Fox M.

Fox,

The implications of this event, if true, are far wider reaching than either you or I can imagine. Of course to determine the truth or fiction of the account I would need to see the pictures and more importantly the video that is also rumored to exist. But to answer your short-sighted questions 1. Yes it is true. 2. If that alien can get a date then there is still hope for the rest of us. 3. The NRARS bylaws clearly state that flaunt-

Original un-altered photo of the fringe benefits

ing a non-human spawn is permissible and in fact encouraged under the 'anything goes' clause. - ed.

Dear Editor,

I have recently received several e-mails and annoying phone calls from someone who is trying to get me to become a franchisee of Access Office Supplies. Is this offer legit? Can I truly "Make millions is less than one year"? Please advise.

- Desperately seeking paper clips

Dear Seeking, Sounds pretty much on the up-and-up to me. I'd invest heavily¹. -ed

Deer Editor:

Put me on the masthead or I will send you a REAL photo of me in the shower, not like that inflatable substitute photo Jennifer Hart sent in.

- SkyGens@eros.com

PS: By the way, where can I get inflatable substitutes for NRARS women?

Dear Mr. SkyGens, if that even is your real name, Please feel free to send your photo. We will publish it on the front page. NOW WHO'S BLUFFING??!! Heh heh heh. Regarding inflatable NRARS women we have forwarded your query to our advice to the lovelorn columnist, a new feature this month. - ed.

Dear Editor,

Could you please use the words 'incendiary' and 'device' in headlines? It doesn't have to be the same one. Thanks, I'm getting behind on this, um, project.

-- Joel "Fwoom Fwoom" Mancini

1. This advice is offered independent of the fact that -ed receives a kickback for every dollar spent at or invested in Access Office Supplies.

In the Lamelight ➤ David Genser

Name: David Genser

Age: Week 1,932

Origins: San Diego, CA, where everyone is tan and buff. I was cast out in 1987, but am proud to remain a weather wimp. I have been in the D.C. area for 8 years, and am currently located in between Jennifer Hart and Jan VerrEy, so to speak.

Education: An AA and a BM. Um, make that a BA and an MA.

Occupation: I work for Congress, a kind of unfair advantage in this contest, I guess. Apparently, I analyze government trade and investment policies and programs for the General Accounting Office. That is, I write reports no one reads while my managers get to go on cool, overseas trips.

Celebrities Met on the Job: Lloyd Bentsen, Clarence Thomas' wife. And this is the glamorous part.

Domesticity: Married 8 years to "handsome" (as described in an Ear credit) wife Jenny, who's great but does not fake laughter well when I try out a real stinker entry on her. Also, 3 year old daughter, Linda, who has learned how to refer to NRARS events as "Daddy seeing his silly friends." Plus 2 cats, who are always laughing at me behind my back and stealing my jokes but they'll pay just you wait Dudzik is behind it.

Worst Nightmare: My daughter has begun telling jokes. Actual example: "Old McDonald had a poopy." If she could use a fax, we'd all be in big trouble.

Turn-ons: Really good writing in most any form, coffee, those cheesy ESPN-2 aerobics shows, White House interns, home office products dealers generally.

Turn-offs: Guys who just can't commit, economists, most lawyers, Sam Donaldson, right-wingers, suburbia, gullible people [turn-offs continued on p7].

Favorite Ear: My left one, I suppose.

Favorite Spice Girl: Nutmeg, the brainy, shy one.

Ginger or MaryAnne: Both.

Hobbies: Guess.

Personal Ads

These are either leftovers from last month's Top Ten contest that arrived too late for publication or they're real ads. We're not sure which and we're not sure we want to find out.

Will trade my Shootins Toilet Seat for a date with you.

Another joke by Anonymous

A married couple was enjoying a dinner in a classy restaurant, when a statuesque brunette walked over to their table, exchanged warm greetings with the husband, and walked off.

"Who was that?" the wife demanded.

"If you must know," the husband replied, "that was my mistress."

"Your mistress? That's it! I want a divorce!" the wife fumed.

The husband looked her straight in the eye and said, "Are you sure you want to give up our big house in the suburbs, your Mercedes, your furs, your jewelry, and our vacation home in Mexico?"

For a long time they continued dining in silence. Finally, the woman nudged her husband and said, "Isn't that Howard over there? Who's he with?"

"That's HIS mistress," her husband replied.

"Oh," she said, taking a bite of dessert. "Ours is much cuter."

During a 20-second time-out Coach Zarrow gives some pointers to team captain Thuermer- "Dammit that's your right arm over there! When the dial comes up 'right hand blue' you put the hand at the end of that arm over there onto that big blue spot."

Determined that no dickweed is going to beat him to the trick, Dave Zarrow clones himself. We surmise that Dave was confused and was referring to Dr. Richard Seed.

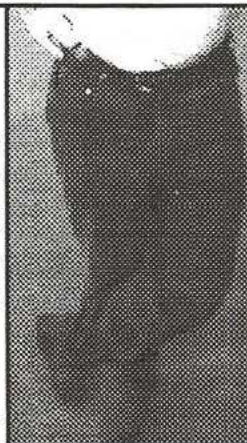

I've spent hours entertaining myself by speculating what's happening in this picture. Why is the money changing hands? Which way is it going? There are still possibilities I haven't considered.

1. The Editorial staff wishes to point out that we believe Ms. Olson misinterpreted the February contest, or perhaps she mailed her entries to Confession's Quarterly in to Depravda by accident. Rather than embarrass her by calling her and asking, we decided to print them here as if they were entries to this month's contest instead.

LOSER HAPPY HOURS: A NEW TRADITION

The next happy hour will be at the Ritz Carlton in Pentagon City. I know Monica is in L.A. now, but I thought that would be too far away.

DATE: Wednesday, February 25.
That's Feb., not March.

PLACE: Pentagon City Ritz Carlton.

EXACT PLACE: I have no idea, I did this one blind. Presumably, they have a bar in the hotel, or two. Look for a gaggle of Losers in any bar-looking place.

TIME: 5 pm or so.

RSVP: Don't. I have made a tentative reservation for 10-15 people under "Genser". The lounge is directly ahead of you when you go in the main doors - Hotel number is 703-415-5000. I spoke with Gary in the Lobby.

Dear Cruella...

Dear Cruella:

I can't seem to get a date with any woman that can't also double as a life preserver. What can I do?

Swamp Maggot/Fort Belvoir

Dear Swamp Maggot:

You people at Fort Belvoir are a bunch of wing nuts. You probably are one of Belvoir's human test subjects -- where do you think that Dupont guy got his tank -- just be thankful that the women there look like life preservers and not Linda Tripp.

Dear Cruella:

Are Joe Romm and Tom Witte twins?

Anonymous/Dudzik@Vitro.Com

Dear Anonymous Fool:

Of course they are twins, and so are Greg Arnold and Dom Delouise.

Dear Readers:

Everyone is sick of the pretentiousness of Martha Stewart, so here are some good old fashioned suggestions that even people who live in trailer parks or planned communities can understand:

1. Road kill can help create a lovely rustic woodsy scene by placing it near trees or peeking out of bushes, but you have to knit little caps for them to cover up their crushed skulls.

2. Do not rinse your eyes with Ajax

WEEK 253: IT'S A PITY

Shoveling trillions and trillions into Big Defense, Capital gains tax whining, Ron Reagan and supply-side nonsense, The bliss that a balanced budget amendment could bring, These are a few of my favorite things. (Peyton Coyner)

"Take my long, thin, white rectangle... please." (Russ Beland)

The law student knows he has to pass this bar to become a lawyer but he can't figure out how to swallow it. (Stephen Dudzik)

I don't know what it really does, but I suspect that several men of my acquaintance, who shall remain nameless but who I hope never to be stuck in an elevator with, are having incredibly repellent fantasies about this thing. (Sarah Worcester)

When judged on humor and originality it really is a pity I can't write a decent poem, not a sonnet nor a ditty. Yet in a contest judged for pity, it's sad that I might soar Oh, and by the way - There ain't no budget deficit no more (J. Kammer)

E2 TROOP

New and Imporved Stats Page, as of the Report from Week 253

The left chart below lists all contestants ranked in the Top 50 for Year 5. Career stats are added, for newer Losers who do not yet appear on the Career list, at right. Right chart lists the Top 50 scorers over all Years.

LID: Loser ID—the order in which the various Losers made their first print appearance.

Dbu: Debut—Week in which you made your first appearance.

Rk: Rank. Year-5 rank is position among 370 Losers so far this Year; Career rank is position among 1927 Losers appearing since Week 1.

Ws: Wins. Ps: Pens awarded for 1st Runner-Up. Shs: Shirts awarded for other Runner-Ups.

Stks: Bumperstickers awarded for Honorable Mentions. Es: Ears No One Reads.

+/-: Change in rank since January issue.

Pts: Points—print appearances, Year 5 or overall.

Cons: Consistency—average points per Week since your Debut (no Week 64), Year 5 or overall.

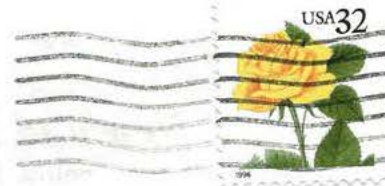

Pace: Number of Year-5 Points you will have at the end of Year 5, if this keeps up.

As always, each Loser's enlightened self-interest is our best quality check, and we are proud to receive your complaints at carns@erols.com.

HEY LOSER! Is Your Subscription About to Expire?

Since I'm not checking any boxes you'll need to find another way to tell. One simple indicator is the new and improved mailing label. Simply follow the arrow to the right of this box. It points to the expiration date of your status, the most common of which is PIF (paid in full). When the expiration date arrives, you'll notice that your subscription fails to arrive in your mail. It's time to renew!
